Do you need food safety training?

If your business serves food in some way, chances are that you are required to have at least one accredited Food Safety Supervisor within your team.

Having a qualified food safety supervisor in your team can help your business in more ways than just compliance.

Why do this course?

Our online Food Safety Supervisor course meets all legal requirements for Food Safety Supervisor training for retail employees throughout Australia.

This course gives your staff a comprehensive understanding of food safety standards and how to avoid food safety breaches, which can seriously affect your customers and reputation.

It accommodates all learning styles with lessons presented visually and verbally. It suits learners with little or no food safety knowledge, through to those who are very experienced and just need the certification.

Who should do this course?

This course has been designed to meet the needs of everyone who needs this qualification, whether you are a seasoned food worker or a new franchisee.
